

Merit Makes It the World's Leader.
Great success always brings out imitators, and readers are warned that when it comes to buying medicine the best is none too good, and whenever a dealer offers to sell you something just as good, put it down as a worthless fake, put your money in your pocket, and go to a store where you will be treated fairly, and where you will ask for Cascares, you will get what you ask for.

Woman's Nerves

Give Warning of Approach of More Serious Trouble.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability, bordering upon hysteria? Are your spirits easily affected so that one minute you laugh, and the next fall into convulsive weeping?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the ovaries, and especially between the shoulders; sometimes loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy, with a tendency to cry at the least provocation?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Undoubtedly you do not know it, but in nine cases out of ten this is caused by some uterine disorder, and the nerves centering in and about the organs which make you a woman influence your entire nervous system.

Something must be done at once to restore their natural condition or you will be prostrated for weeks and months perhaps, and suffer untold misery.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for this purpose than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women have written us so.

How Mrs. Holland, of Philadelphia, suffered among the finest physicians in the country, none of whom could help her—finally cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For over two years I was a constant sufferer from extreme nervousness, indigestion, and dizziness. Menstruation was irregular, had backache and a feeling of great lassitude and weakness. I was so bad that I was not able to do my own work or go far in the street. I could not sleep nights.

I tried several splendid doctors, but they gave me no relief. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I soon began to feel better, and was able to go to work and feel as if I would fall at every step. I continued to take your medicine until cured.

"I cannot say enough in behalf of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine, and heartily recommend it to all who are afflicted with nervousness, indigestion, and dizziness."—Mrs. E. L. ENCKE, 622 S. Clifton St., Philadelphia, Pa. (Jan. 4, 1902).

Another case of severe female trouble cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after the doctors had failed.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was in poor health for several years. I had female trouble and was not able to do my housework alone. I felt tired, very nervous, and could not sleep. I doctored with several doctors. They doctored me for my stomach, but did not relieve me. I read in your book about your medicine, and thought I would try it. I did so, and am now cured and I am able to do my work alone, and feel good. I was always very poor, but now weigh one hundred and fifty pounds.

I thank you for the relief I have obtained, and I hope that every woman troubled with female weakness will get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I have recommended it to many of my friends."—Mrs. MARIA BOWLER, Millersville, Ohio. (Aug. 15, 1901).

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all of the virtues of this medicine?

How shall the fact that it will help them be made plain? Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, and sick, and discouraged, exhausted with each day's work. You have some strange complaint of the feminine organism, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as surely as it has others.

A German Farmer's Case.
Rich Fountain, Mo., Aug. 17th.—Rev. Mr. Pope, of this place, is widely and favorably known as a clergyman who has done and is doing much for his people. He is very much beloved by everyone for the faithfulness of his pastoral work.

Rev. Mr. Pope has given for publication a statement made to him by a German farmer, who is a member of his congregation. The man's name is George Hoelzer, and he has given Rev. Mr. Pope this letter:

"Last winter I suffered very much with Rheumatism. I could neither walk nor ride on horse back nor do any farm work. I took medicine from different doctors, but they did not do me any good. Then I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills procured for me by a good friend. After I had taken the first box I felt already a heap better; I was released of the pain and could walk and chop wood, and the contraction of my fingers began to resolve.

Now since I have taken six more boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I feel well again and am able to do all the work on the farm."

WASTEFULNESS OF AMERICANS

Prodigality in Use of Food and Clothing—Something Appalling—Lost Farm Products.

Premising that the American people are the slowest in the world to be aroused on the subject of economy, the Independent calls attention once more to the great items of waste in our national life, says the New York World.

While our industries are expanding with amazing rapidity we are using up our forests, our oil wells, our natural gas and our coal beds as recklessly as if we thought they would last forever. Prof. Gorby declares that the waste of natural gas in Indiana alone is equal in value to $10,000,000 per day. Within a single century we have annihilated 97 per cent. of our magnificent forest trees, a waste without parallel in history, and one for which posterity will surely reproach us.

Our waste of food is appalling. Cooking is a lost art in the average household. At least $1,000,000 is every year thrown away in defective cooking; so Prof. Matthews estimates. There is no comfort in the fact that the English people are just as prodigal, though they have a much leaner pantry to draw upon. Prof. Marshall, an eminent English economist, says the British working classes spend $500,000,000 every year for things that give them neither comfort nor happiness, and the president of the British association recently expressed his belief that this vast sum was wasted in food alone.

On our farms twice as much food products at least are grown as are consumed. An agricultural expert recently estimated that one-half of all the fruit grown in American orchards rots uncollected. The further loss from insects, ignorant cultivation, careless handling and poor storage is incalculable.

Probably the greatest waste of all is that which seems to be involuntary on the part of our working people. They buy their bread at retail and pay three times as much for it as if they bought it in flour by the barrel. It is the testimony of retail butchers that the poor buy meats also with far less frugality than the rich. Edward Atkinson has been for 20 years showing by practical experiments that the largest amount of nourishment can be obtained from the cheapest cuts of meat, if they are so cooked as to be instead of thrown away the food there is in them. But as the Independent says, buying at wholesale is unknown to the majority of American families, and we support a vast number of middlemen whose profits might be easily saved.

Our contemporary's conclusion that studies in domestic economy might be carried into our schools with great advantage is sensible. Five times our present population at least could and should be well fed without any increase of our cultivated area. We cannot continue our present extravagance forever. "Waste not, want not," is the sound maxim for nations as well as individuals.

FLOWER WITH DEADLY ODOR.

Hitherto Unknown Species of Plant Recently Discovered in Southern California.

A tree hitherto unknown to botanists was recently discovered in a mountain canyon in the San Jacinto mountains, near the Mexican border. It was discovered by a party of prospectors who penetrated the canyon in search of water. A branch of the tree and its blossoms were brought to this city for classification, but it is unknown to botanists in this city, says the Chicago Chronicle.

The leaves of the tree resemble in size and shape the fig leaf, but they are of a vivid purple color and the under side of the leaf is thickly covered with stiff hairs, which stand out from the leaf fully half an inch. These hairs are sharp and thornlike and easily penetrate the skin, and when they do so they are poisonous, causing swelling and much pain.

The blossoms are as peculiar as are the branches and leaves. They are of a rusty red color and are about two inches in diameter. In shape they are a very good representation of the tarantula. There is a huge hairy bulb in shape resembling the abdomen of the poisonous spider, and there are several chelicerae, or stamens, corresponding to the legs of that insect.

The most peculiar feature of the plant, however, remains to be told. Whenever one approaches the plant, or when the wind agitates the branches of the tree, the flowers give off an abundance of perfume—heavy, sickening and deadly. This perfume has the quality of chloroform and a few inhalations of the odor produce unconsciousness. The prospectors who made the discovery of the plant were rendered insensible upon approaching the tree to examine it.

As the plant seems to have no botanical name, two names have been suggested by the qualities of the plant itself. One is tarantula plant, the other chloroform tree.

Had an Assistant.
A naval officer tells of a conversation he once overheard between two marines who were arguing as to who had the least work to do on board a man-of-war.

"It's the chaplain," said one.

"How do you make that out?" asked the second.

"Because he ain't got any work to do and all day to do it in."

The second marine snorted his disgust.

"You're wrong, Jack," said he. "It's the captain of marines."

"How's that?"

"Well, me boy, as you say, the chaplain's nothing to do and all day to do it in; but the cap'n of marines has nothing to do and all day to do it, and a lieutenant of marines to help him do it."—N. Y. Times.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson in the International Series for August 23, 1903—David and Jonathan.

THE LESSON TEXT.
(1 Sam. 20:12-23.)

12 And Jonathan said unto David, O Lord God of Israel, when I have sounded my father about to-morrow any time, or the third day, and behold, if there be good toward thee, I will send thee a message, and thou shalt know it.

13 The Lord do so and much more to Jonathan; but if it please my father to do this evil, then I will shew it thee, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace; and the Lord be with thee, as He hath been with my father.

14 And thou shalt not only while yet I live shew me the kindness of the Lord, that I die not.

15 But also thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house for ever; no, not when the Lord hath cut off the enemies of David every one from the face of the earth.

16 So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, saying, Let the Lord require it at the hand of David's enemies.

17 And Jonathan caused David to swear again, because he loved him; for he loved him as his own soul.

18 Then Jonathan said to David, To-morrow is the new moon; and thou shalt be missed, because the seat will be empty.

19 And when thou hast stayed three days, then thou shalt go down quickly, and come to the place where thou didst hide, and shalt remain by the stone Ezel.

20 And I will shoot three arrows on the side thereof, as though I shot at a mark.

21 And behold, I will send a lad, saying, Go, find out the arrows. If I express any unto the lad, behold the arrows are on thee; for there is peace to thee, and no hurt; as the Lord liveth.

22 But if I say thus unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee; go thy way; for the Lord hath sent thee, then as touching the matter which thou and I have spoken of, behold, the Lord be between thee and me for ever.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

In what true friendship consists is seen in the strength and beauty of the tie that existed between David and Jonathan. Friendship does not demand but gives; and either would willingly have made sacrifices for the other. Such a friendship is possible only between persons of exalted character.

Chapter nineteen narrates the temporary reconciliation between Saul and David, at Jonathan's earnest intercession. But it was very short-lived. As soon as David again wins renown in battle, Saul's hatred returns, more violent than ever, and the victim of insane jealousy escapes from his father's house.

By night, assisted by his wife Michal, he escapes to Jonathan's house, where he is soon discovered. At Saul's approach David is forced into a perilous position.

Saul's escape and safety at Jonathan's house, 1 Sam. 19:1-17. Jonathan's discovery of the cause of the king's jealousy toward him, 1 Sam. 19:18-24. Jonathan's sanguine disposition, 1 Sam. 19:25-42. The idea that Saul desired David's death or that his dislike was really permanent, but David feared the worst. The two friends arrange to meet at the feast of the new moon, which was to occur the next day. Jonathan should make a final attempt to reconcile the king to David.

Then as the two friends walked through the fields—both conscious that it might prove their last meeting—they solemnly vowed that their mutual friendship should be lasting—should continue even to their descendants. "When Jehovah hath cut off the enemies of David," Jonathan's faith in David's future is remarkable in spite of David's desperate condition that day, his friend believed in him, and believed he would some day be king of Israel. Jonathan's utter lack of jealousy under such circumstances is truly Christlike.

Jonathan promised to sound his father on the following feast day as to his feelings toward David, and agreed to report to David at their rendezvous on the third day. As a private interview might be prevented by the presence of spies or others, they arranged the signs as described in verses 20-22, so that, in any case, David might readily know whether or not it were necessary for him to flee from the country.

The rest of this chapter should be faithfully read. At the appointed feast, David's absence is noted. The king, who had probably planned his death on that occasion, Jonathan quickly discovers Saul's implacable hatred of his rival, and risks his own life vainly in defending David from the royal abuse. The account of the parting of the friends at the feasting-place on the third day is brief but significant of their strong attachment. They never met again.

"Jonathan loved David as his own soul." And why? Because his soul was like the soul of David; because he was modest, he loved David's modesty; because he was brave, he loved David's courage; because he was virtuous, he loved David's goodness."—Charles Kingsley.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.
A true friend will always stand up for his absent mate.
A true friend will forfeit even life itself to protect the one he loves.
A true friend seeks to give rather than get; his joy is in benefiting his comrade.

True Truth.
Self-denial is the secret of delight. Great treasures do not need large houses.
Men who will carve their own fortunes must expect to cut their own fingers.—Ram's Horn.

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM.
Constantinople is sometimes called the city of dogs, but it might be called quite as well the city of pigeons, for the pretty gray-white birds are there in innumerable flocks.

Monkeys are very numerous along the northwest coast of South America, but are not found west of the Andes from northern Peru to the south end of the continent. Their home in South America is chiefly in the great Amazon basin and along the fluvial systems of the upper half of the Paraguay and the Parana rivers.

MEN WHO ARE TALKED ABOUT.

Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, uttered the following admonition at the Worcester summer school: "Constitutions and states, congresses and laws, police and elections, all break down and come to grief unless there be human character. You may have all these things, but there will come a time when you must depend upon some individual to do right."

At a recent meeting of Benjamin Hamrick's family in Webster Springs, W. Va., it developed that the aggregate stature of Mr. Hamrick and his eight sons was sixty-two and one-half feet. The father stands six feet five and one-half inches, and the "sawed off" of the family, a son named William, is six feet one inch. The members of this remarkable family range in weight from 155 to 200 pounds.

Thomas J. Mosteller, of Hazel Run, St. Francis county, Mo., is the biggest man in the state, weighing something over 600 pounds and steadily gaining. As an ordinary meal he eats from three to five pounds of meat, usually consuming about a gallon of water at a meal. Mr. Mosteller was of ordinary bulk until his twenty-fifth year. He is now 49 years old and does some work on his farm, being able to move about quite freely with the aid of a huge cane.

J. B. Haggin, the noted horseman, has raised some of the greatest racers of which the American turf can boast, but he has never been heard to yell at the close of a finish, nor does he even smile at victory. His record for neatness is almost without parallel. It being nothing unusual for him to go through an entire day without saying more than half a dozen words. It is said that when a close friend spoke to him of this peculiarity Mr. Haggin made this reply: "Joyner, my trainer, does enough hollering for both of us."

WHAT SCIENTISTS TELL US.
In the North sea fisheries investigation a plaice has been found to migrate 160 miles in six weeks.

The new three-element of Dr. S. P. Drossbach is claimed to be an important advance in the production of electricity by such batteries. The electrodes are made up of an alloy of elements of the cerium and zirconium groups, giving, with copper, etc., increased electromotive force and conductivity.

Since the great volcanic disturbances in the Windward Islands it has been impossible to maintain unbroken cable connections between the islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe and the French government has established a wireless telegraph service between the two. The distance exceeds 100 miles.

Easily fusible alloys for casts of leaves, fruits, insects, etc., must contain cadmium, according to a German authority. To preserve the article from injury, such an alloy is Wood's metal, which consists of two parts of tin, four of lead, seven of eight of bismuth, and one of two of cadmium, and which fuses between 66 degrees and 72 degrees C. Lipowitz's metal, which softens at 55 degrees C. and becomes perfectly liquid at 66 degrees, consists of four parts of tin, eight parts of lead, fifteen of bismuth and three of cadmium.

MAXIMS OF A WEALTHY MAN.
As a part of his will Mayer Anselm Rothschild laid down 12 maxims to the observance of which during life he attributed much of the success he achieved.

These maxims are now attracting attention in Europe and are recommended to those who desire to succeed in life.

Seriously ponder over and thoroughly examine any project to which you intend to give your attention.

Reflect a long time and then decide promptly.

Endure annoyances patiently and fight bravely against obstacles.

Consider honor as a sacred duty. Never lie about a business affair. Pay your debts promptly.

Learn how to sacrifice money when necessary.

Do not trust too much to luck. Spend your time profitably. Do not pretend to be more important than you really are. Never become discouraged, work zealously and you will surely succeed.

COMPULSED TO USE A CRUTCH FOR EIGHT MONTHS. DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED MRS. P. CONLIN, CARBONDALE, PA.

Mrs. P. Conlin, 25 Greenfield Avenue, Carbondale, Pa., says: "I suffered with backache, and dropsy of the limbs, and I could not get rid of it. I was compelled to use a crutch for eight months, and a part of the time was unable to walk at all. I fairly screamed if I attempted to lift my feet from the floor and, finally, I lost control of my limbs through weakness, as I could neither stand nor straighten up to my full height, and if ever a woman was in a serious condition, I was. My husband went to Kelly's drug store and brought home a box of Doan's Pills. I felt better in a few days, and, continuing the treatment, I was soon able to walk. At the end of two weeks, the pain in my joints had disappeared. I had not a stitch of pain, and I have been in that condition ever since."

Aching backs are eased, hip, back, and limb pains relieved. Swelling of the limbs and dropsy signs vanish.

Correct urine with brick dust sediment, high colored, pain in passing, dribbling, frequency, bed wetting. Doan's Kidney Pills remove heart palpitation, sleeplessness, headache, nervousness, dizziness.
